

January 2013...

Many people wonder as to what exactly will happen in December 2012? What if the most important thing was instead what will happen AFTER 2012? I don't know if you've had the opportunity to feel the powerful cosmic energies at work during the harmonic concordance of the 8-8-8, but along with a handful of light workers gathered in Ireland, we were treated to a pre-taste of what life on our beautiful planet will be like from 2013!

Imagine: an entire green country filled with sacred sites pre-dating the pyramids of Egypt! Hundreds of ovoid shaped temples that archaeologists claim would be "tombs" dating from the megalithic era, more than 4000 years before Jesus Christ, but which turned out to be intergalactic portals connecting us to our brothers and sisters from the stars. For generations, the Irish culture has been filled with legends and fantastic tales of sprites, fairies, witches and druids. Wasn't this the ideal place to be to celebrate the reunification of the different worlds that surround us?

Like most people who open their heart and connect to the divine energy in and around them, we let the events and the signs encountered serve as our guides; which allowed us to penetrate a universe where time and space no longer matter. Only the eternal present remains, thus connecting us closely to all that lives and vibrates in all the parallel dimensions.

We received some teachings and spiritual lessons re-establishing our "affective" (karmic) connections with the past, some of which I would like to share with you - now that I have "integrated" them - as to remind you that we all are ONE and that the cellular memory of each and everyone of us contains the human and spiritual experiences of those who have preceded us.

What if the goal of our incarnation was simply to become creating gods here on Earth again? To succeed in storing the most powerful and pure divine energy, within our body, within matter and within all that surrounds us? To manage to elevate the vibrations of one's individual cells until they sparkle and vibrate in unison with those present in all that surrounds us, communicating their light and their quintessence to all that lives in the visible and invisible planes?

Many high beings, mystics and initiates have managed to accomplish such a feat. Many are those who have left traces of their path, of their quest of absolute, of their fusion encounter with God, the great Goddess, the creative sources or universal energy, whatever name you give it. Christ, Buddha and the ascended masters have shared with us their experiences of life and have transmitted the teachings which have inspired them on the way to their own divine realisation.

Yet, those teachings have been reused by "structures", churches and institutions, which have turned them into a "knowledge" inaccessible to the common mortal, claiming only "initiates" had the power to access the divine or intercede for us, poor ignorant humans.

It has been so since the world exists! What we have received in channelling my girlfriends and I during our visits of some sacred sites in Ireland is probably going to shock some of you... In particular all those who feel they have been unfairly burned on a stake for having been identified as “witches”...

According to Saint Patrick, patron of the Irish, the first Christians had not other choice but to interfere with the druidic cults run by women because not only had they appropriated themselves the right of life and death over all the children to be born (and thus were using sexuality to enslave the males), but they were getting their supernatural power directly from the telluric energy of the planet... Thus draining its vital resources in an even more destructive way than the oil companies of today, drinking from the blood of Gaia itself!

“We had to establish balance on these lands”, Saint Patrick told us, “and many druids sided with us so that the spiritual power would go in the hands of men”. Hence the legend of the stick that repelled the snakes: “these priestesses, centred on their sexual charkas were using the Kundalini as a way to amplify their power without care for the sacred meaning of the sexual union. The era of the men objects had to end!”

Ironic isn't it? When we know that humanity has just gone from one extreme to the other...

What if we had deliberately chosen for it to be that way? If we had so much “pleasure” incarnating on this earth that we purposely chose to leave aside our divine and spiritual nature in order to fully incarnate and live our life down here? Thus, the various religions have in turn taken the exclusivity of the connection to the divine, remaining present and valiant, like lighthouses on the sea shore... to which, until now, we had only paid attention when a tempest would happen in our life!!!

But all this is now changing. More and more people are becoming aware that the only way to be happy and balanced is to remain in harmony with all the dimensions of our being, on the physical, material, emotional AND spiritual planes at the same time. We are now transiting into the 5th dimension by aligning and harmonising those 4 essential primordial dimensions within ourselves!

On the hill of Tara, near Dublin, we were able to see with our own eyes the cosmic energy at work when the two poles of this sacred site became reunited as the beings present there realized that we all are ONE, no matter the soul contracts we may have “signed” in the past.

Indeed, many souls, wishing to remain faithful to their beliefs of the time, had “remained behind” during many years as to “protect” some of the sacred sites and be their “guardians” in the invisible plane. Doing so, entire families, of various allegiances, had fought – not to say killed each other – while alive, and found themselves “stuck” each on their side in parallel realities, wandering on battlefields, cemeteries and ancestral cult sites.

During our unifying mediation of the 8-8-8, we saw those souls from past centuries awaken, become aware that they could make new choices and that, deep down, no matter what their allegiances were, ALL aspired to reconnect with their divine intrinsic nature. It is thus by the thousands that we saw the souls of the deceased Irish meet again for a moving reconciliation in the 5th dimension!

Parents and children who had stopped talking to each other while alive were falling into each other's arms! Ancient warriors having fought against one another for divergent values and principles were seeing their bitterness and differences vanish into smoke to finally see each other with the eyes of the heart! The invisible barriers erected around those sacred sites were falling one after the other and the lost souls could finally cross the line that was separating them from the ascension light... leading straight to the 7th heaven! It was wonderful!

There are no words to describe what we felt in the face of such a collective reunification and such inter-dimensional healing... which allowed us present there to appease and purify our souls from all those wounds of the past still buried in our hearts, cells and "collective unconscious".

I take the time to share this with you today for these pure moments of happiness are in my eyes the tangible and precursory signs of what is coming here on earth for 2012. The whole of humanity is awakening; the veil of unconsciousness is thinning by the day. More and more people realize that every person they meet on their path is not there by coincidence, but to the contrary helps us to become aware of the parts of us that still "suffer", that are left ignored.

As long as you have a tendency to neglect either the spiritual, intellectual, emotional or material aspect in your life, you remain out of balance, in duality with yourself... as a consequence, you will then have a tendency to attract to you the opposite "pole" so that together, you maintain a certain balance in your environment, the tri-dimensional reality that surrounds you.

You don't take your place? Life sends you someone that knows how to put themselves first... whether you agree or not! You don't express your emotions? Loads of people will come to cry on your shoulder! Your spiritual journey takes all your time and thoughts? Your partner closes up like an oyster and doesn't want to hear anything that you have to share with him!

Anything that is in "excess" is unbalanced. Even if at times we need to pass from one extreme to another to find the "middle path" – as in the case of the witches and the Christian priests – we know that everything that is being played out on the individual or planetary planes is no more than the reflection of our own "illusory" creations... because we remained "disconnected" from our true nature: divine and unlimited.

What if we only had a few more years left to "play" in the extremes to finally get tired of it and CHOOSE to rediscover balance within ourselves, both on the personal and collective planes? Isn't this what is happening under our very eyes right now?

What we witnessed in the invisible in Ireland is what is taking place everywhere on earth: our consciousness is becoming animated, we are increasingly aspiring to live in harmony, we are becoming aware that our own internal balance is what has the most impact on those close to us and our environment...

One can only give what one truly owns! The more you feel in harmony, peace of mind and light hearted, the more you radiate those virtues around you and communicate your state of mind to those who surround you... Rather than “giving” of yourself body and soul to a cause, a project or in service of people you love, what if you simply “gave the example”?

2013 will be what WE make of it! Everything is already in place! Light beings from all the dimensions and from everywhere in the cosmos are accompanying us and taking part in this breathtaking reunification WITH OURSELVES!

You are trying to eliminate your fears of the future and of the “disasters” that “could” happen until 2012? The solution is dead simple: focus your attention on 2013!

Visualise the world of your dreams, Heaven on Earth! Imagine how you will live when you will be in total balance in all the spheres of your life and all the dimensions of your being! Take some time to feel inside yourself how light, blissful and free to manifest the best in your life you will be once you have reconnected with your divine, co-creating infinite and unlimited nature!

What we visualise materializes. What we bless enchants us. What we nurture bears fruit. Nurture thoughts of joy, peace, plenitude and those will manifest in your life... and in the lives of those you love! Radiate, amplify your own divine light and communicate hope of a better world to those around you through the power of your radiance alone... Thus, you will ALREADY be in the energy of 2013 at every moment of your life!!!

Message from de Bianca Gaia/Diane LeBlanc, transmitted on October 1st, 2008, also available on www.biancagaina.com. You are invited to circulate this text on the condition of preserving its entirety including these few lines.